From the Headmaster

Stephen Beatty '86

Dear Georgians,

Welcome to what is, by my count, the 49th edition of The Georgian.

I was reminded of the importance of The Georgian during a heartbreaking call I had with a former parent a couple of weeks ago, on the same day as we were celebrating our grade 8 and grade 12 graduations.

This mother was calling the school to confirm some details as she was preparing the obituary for her son who had tragically passed away from illness at the age of 57. Her son, John, was a member of the class of 1979 and, as we spoke, I pulled that issue of The Georgian from the bookshelf behind my desk.

I found her son's photograph and, as it turned out, I remembered him, even though I was a student in grade 6 the year he graduated. As I looked through the pages and started naming some of John's classmates and teachers, she added her own names. Boys who had been friends of John's, boys who had been to their home, teachers who had been particularly inspiring.

Their names seem to fill in the lines as she tried, in her grief, to pull together all the pieces of her son's life.

Back in February I spoke in Chapel about the importance of names. I shared my belief that names are so important, "We honour others by using their name, by saying their name, by asking them their name, and by saying it properly."

This book is a record of our year together. It mirrors the day-to-day life of our College during a school year. It is also a record of the names of those with whom we shared our days. As I do with every issue, I shall cherish this book.

My thanks to everyone in our community for another memorable year at our wonderful College. My thanks to my colleagues for challenging and inspiring each boy to continue his journey toward the best version of himself. My thanks to Mr. Hutton for his ongoing commitment to the important task of editing and publishing the yearbook.

Finally, my thanks and congratulations to the Class of 2017 for your leadership of the College. You have raised the banner high.

Long Live RSGC! Scientia Pietate

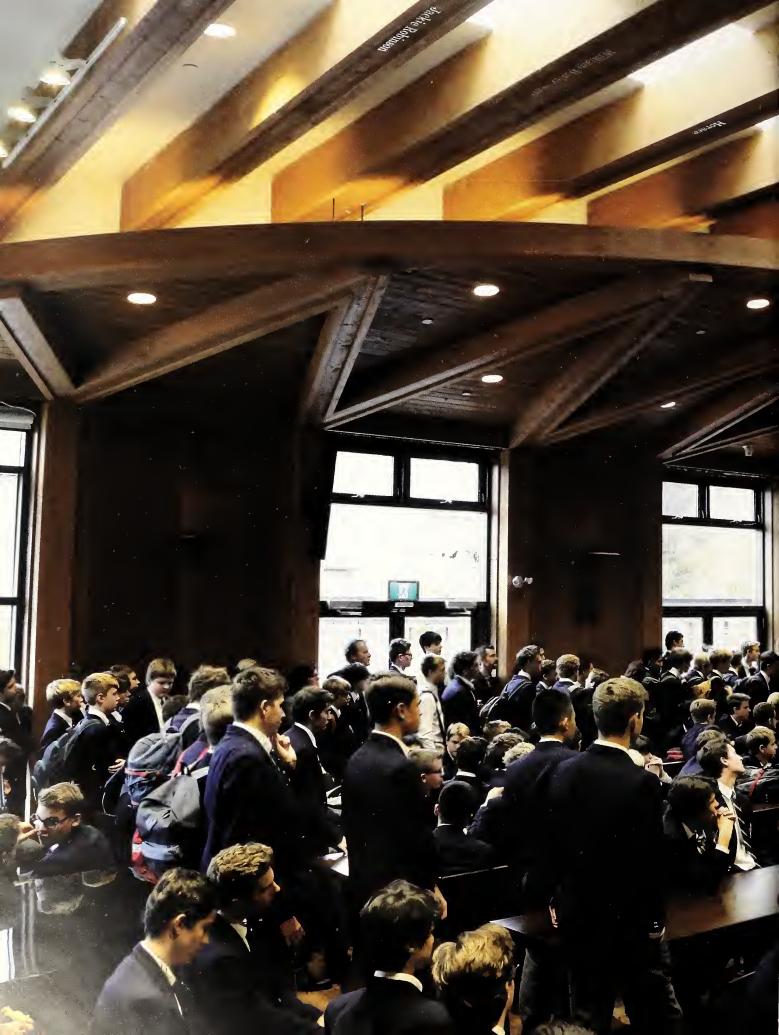

The following photographers contributed work to The Georgian, whether they realize it or not: CanGrad Studios, Aidan Chiu, Charles Hacker, Graeme Playfair, Ms. Mandarino, Will Rochon Mr. Seale, and Mr. Stevens. If you see a photo you took and we did not mention your name you have our apologies.

Many thanks for logistical and other types of support to Ms. Baby, Dr. Evans, Ms. Fitzpatrick, Sensei Miller, Mr. Turner, and Ms. Wagar.

A good chunk of this book was produced by two students: Jonah Walker-Sherman and Adam Sheeres-Paulicpulle. Their dedication to what can sometimes be tedious work is to be celebrated.

This year's yearbook is dedicated to the memory of Kiki.

I would like to apologize to every teacher for not living up to the standards of my older brother Chris.

Stuart Armstrong

My time at RSGC has been great and I am grateful to the staff and faculty for making it this way. Also the class of 2017, thanks for all the memories. The bonds and friendships that have been formed will not be forgotten even after we are all gone.

Don't put anything stupid as your grad quote. – Mom

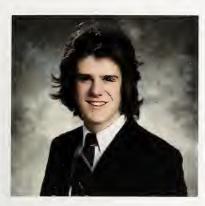

Puneet Bagga

If you are reading this, I apologize for going the heartfelt cheesy route with my grad quote. Honestly, I was going to go with an original and hilarious one liner but my judgement got the better of me. Instead I am opting for the "done a million times" message. Before we start, I just want to say thank you for taking two minutes or so out off your very busy day to read this and hopefully you won't be disappointed at the end of this wonderfully short journey. Let's begin, I have been at RSGC for a total of 4 years, probably the best of my life so far. In this time, I have truly learned the meaning of being a Georgian. To me, being a Georgian it's about achieving the best version of yourself. It means, finding your passion, working hard to achieve your goals and getting one step closer to your dreams. It means family, loyalty and respect, failure and success. It isn't a term, it is a way of life and it has to be earned. To the Class of 17, thank you for everything, you guys are my brothers and always will be. To my parents and teachers I would not be here without you, thank you. Mr. D'Arcy, thank you for everything, I owe you so much including many Creatron restocking trips. My hilarious one liner:

If you ever thought, "how does Puneet do everything?"
Well, "ITS BECAUSE I'M PUNEET!" said in the Batman voice

Stewart Bell

As I reach the end of my graduating year, I find it tough to look back on my nine years at RSGC, and not think how much I have changed. When I walked into my grade 4 class on my first day at RSGC, I was a shy 8 year old, with a buzz cut and less than half my front teeth. The person I am today, has been a nurtured through the community that I have been lucky to be member of. Memories include playing humpty dumpty, Mr Robinson's plane project, endless reading logs and word lists, the infamous big mamas, electroscope season, raking leaves at Christie Gardens, the accounting uber, the Madoff Affair, and four; the amount of times Kotecha told me to stop eating candy, before I actually stopped eating it. I feel grateful that I was given the opportunity to be a georgian. The lessons I have learned at RSGC are beyond something that could be learned from a textbook. I am thankful for the staff, teachers, and friends who helped to shape me into the person I am today.

Over the course of high school I had the luxury of meeting and hanging out with so many great guys. I know I'm not the most social person but I'd like to thank you guys for making this the best year of my life. I'd also like to thank all of my teachers for helping me get through high school. All of your support made it possible for me to be the best version of myself. I can genuinely say that I do not regret my time at the Royal College.

The best thing about RSGC, is the people that make it RSGC. I came here as a short blonde kid who literally knew two people, and I now leave a guy who still gets called Rory, and is lucky enough to call every guy in his grade a friend. You never really know how much you value a place until you have less than a month left at it - that's why I've written you some tips for how to get the most out of your remaining years at the college:

- 1. Always, ask for extra breadsticks with your pasta.
- 2. Never, assume there will be any daily meat sandwiches left after chapel.
- 3. Always, keep an extra late slip in your blazer pocket.
- 4. Never, assume Mr. Beatty will be ready to play ball-hockey.
- Always, study one extra night for your stoichiometry test.
- 6. Never, use your real name on Kahoot.
- 7. Definitely, mute the grade group chat.

Also, shout-out to Ms. Girvan for never not holding it down, and congrats to Adam Fell on his hard-earned prefectship.

What can I say about this phenomenal educational facility, far too much for 250 words but I'll give it a (royal) college try(sorry). I came here a mere six years ago as a bieber-haired-bucked tooth seventh grader, having known the college since 2005 and having had both brothers graduate before myself, it is safe to say I knew I was going to enjoy my time here. I flipping love this place, the amount of laughs I have per day is borderline unhealthy, but I back it. Intramural and lunchtime footy, rug life, the ski team peak, volleyball, Starbucks sprints, semi debauchery, the outdoor education shenanigans, the countless nights of procrastination, and many more. There's are truly too many. This place bangs. I wrote a thesis of movie quotes for this, but i fear they won't fit. Anyways, I'd like to thank the teachers, students, staff and all the amazing people that made this ride so great. Also my parents for letting three young boys experience a combined 18 years at a wonderful place. You will be missed RSGC, my econlab will not be.

After six years at the college, writing this is near impossible. With so many people to thank, for the first time in high school it is unbelievably difficult to keep this writing under the word limit. I'd like to thank my parents for giving me the opportunity to come to such an amazing school, the faculty who make it clear everyday they love coming to work, but most importantly, the other boys in my grade. You have made my time here fantastic, and I cannot thank you enough for allowing me to enjoy coming to school every day. No matter how many tests, assignments, or presentations we had, looking back it was the fellow members of my grade who kept me going, and in whom I found my motivation.

Although the education part is important, the relationships built through RSGC are arguably more valuable, and I will treasure each one I had the chance to build for the rest of my life.

Now, more importantly:

It has been an amazing 9 years at RSGC, and there are just a few people and things i'd like to mention. Firstly, thank you to my teachers for guiding me from grade 3 all the way to grade 12. Secondly, thank you to my parents for sending me to this school and for their continuous support since the junior school. And lastly, to my friends who I shared the memories I will never forget with. Thank you!

George Butterworth

No words can describe my experience at RSGC. As a guy who had moved from country to country, for the first 16 years of my life, I had seen a lot of what the world had to offer, but I have never truly found a home. The last two years of high school have changed me and given me lasting memories and a home forever. Whether it is lunch time footy, sports teams or class everything brings these boys together to form a place which is unrivalled, a school that provides so much more than a great education, a place which turns boys into men. I am very privileged to have met so many wonderful people and I want to thank everyone that has been apart of my life for the last two years, as they have been the greatest two years of my life.

Pengrui Cai

The last year has been a delightful blur. I would like to thank to all the teachers who believed in me during the times in which I couldn't do the same for myself, and also to extend that to my friends as well. I wish you happiness and success.

As a grade, I hope everyone finds luck wherever they go. You are all great, smart individuals who have the will and capacity to succeed anywhere.

My time at RSGC has been amazing and it is hard to believe that I have spent half my life at this school. The opportunities that this school has given me is something that I will never forget, trips like the Judo trip or the band trips were my best memories. The faculty and staff that made me feel at home and truly cared for. Finally, the boys in the class of 2017, the friendships and bonds we have formed over the years is something that will not be broken even after we go our separate ways.

5 years ago I started my time at the Royal College as the only new boy and have loved every minute since. From Rez to TJ's it's all gone by so quickly. From the fantasy leagues that we all take too seriously to the boys from Lorne avenue. To the times in the liability room with Isab AWOL and Simo where pushing pace was a daily activity and you could not walk more than 3 feet without stepping on glass. Finally, The hooliganism in Financial Securities will not be forgotten. Accounting UBER #2 coming soon...

Thank you parents making it possible so I could go to the college. Also, thank you Mr. Beatty for putting up with me since grade 2 at Montcrest.

ó years ago I started at the college under five feet with Bieber hair. Since then, I've enjoyed school sanctioned events, daily bucks runs, and selling TRT tickets. I've learned to love Thursdays because of evensong and TJ's, and learned that Fridays are like unrealistic books, so I guess they're Fiction Fridays? I learned to enjoy the finer things in life such as a sit down dinners at Against The Grain (2012-2017), and that Lorne Avenue real estate is ideal. Of course, I've made new friends along the way. For example, JR and I meet our new friend every Friday at the Leaside Village. Although that doesn't top meeting Ezra, Itai, Isaiah, and Iram. I'll never forget Financial Securities where we learned about liabilities alongside liabilities. Speaking of liabilities, shout out to the liability room with Rylo and Isab where the pace was always pushed.

Offset! you don't! I got next! Camel?

In all seriousness, I'd like to thank everyone who made this journey spectacular. It's been a wild 6 years and I'll never forget it. I kept my stick on the ice and good things happened.

"Thank you to everyone from my four years at RSGC for teaching me the important lessons in life and setting me up for what comes next. From the times I spent staring at a whiteboard, laughing at some joke during lunch and being crammed on the subway I will always remember that: In life, "We make war that we may live is peace." - Aristotle Because, "If you're going through hell, keep going." - Winston Churchill But sometimes, "I wish there was a way to know you're in the good old days, before you've actually left them" -Andy, The Office Always remember, "It's just a flesh wound." - Monty Python"

I would like the thank my parents for their support. As well, I would like to thank RSGC for making me the person I am today and for all the fun times.

Alex Forgay

When I first came to RSGC I knew one person. Today, four years later, I am part of a family that I know will never let me down. I want to sincerely thank my parents and all my teachers for helping me through these years of my life.

Most of all however, I want to thank the boys. The lifeblood of this school. My brothers. Without us by each-other's side, we would never be able to accomplish what we have. We must remember that going forward. We have so much potential, most of all when we stick together. As for what we do with that potential, I would like to end with a quote from Robert Kennedy:

"And let's dedicate ourselves to what the Greeks wrote so many years ago: to tame the savageness of man and make gentle the life of this world. Let us dedicate ourselves to that."

The world is waiting Gents. Let's go make it Georgian.

To my teachers, thank you for encouraging me to learn and nourishing my love for different subjects. Hugo Hardinge

Well RSGC, I guess it looks like it's time to say goodbye. From starting in grade 4 to now, it has been an unreal journey. There are a couple of things that I would like to say.

Firstly, I would like to give the deepest thanks to parents for sending me to RSGC. If it wasn't for you both, I wouldn't be the man I am today. Your unconditional love and support has always helped me get through the best and worst of times.

Secondly, I would like to thank all of my teachers, mentors and advisors over the years who have gave of their time, effort and knowledge to instill in me. I owe so much to all of you for making this experience so special. I would like to give special notice to Mr. Jamieson, Dr. Leatch and Mr. Kotecha for all of your unconditional support, effort and inspiration over the years. You have all impacted me so much and have made my time at RSGC just that much better.

Lastly, but definitely not least. The boys. Here's to the guys starting in grade 4, to the guys who came years ahead, I have made some of my closest friends with you guys. Here's to the fantastic memories, laughs and stories made. You guys are the best and I am so grateful that our brotherhood is so strong. It has been quite the nine years; I will never forget them. Boys, thanks for making high school such a time.

Oliver Hardinge

Well RSGC I guess this is goodbye, but not forever. It's been quite a blast growing up as a young 8-year-old to an 18-year-old man. First, I would like to thank my parents for sending me to a spectacular school.

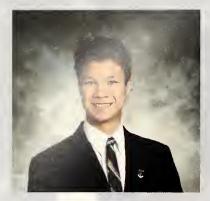

Secondly, I want to thank everyone at RSGC for making my 9 years here beyond spectacular. To the staff and teacher for giving it there all, and for giving me knowledge and lifelong skills. Thank you for your countless years of support and opportunities.

I will miss all the memories here, to Mr. Doerkson's data management and functions jokes "sound effects come for free, and for your late night dinner and dining enjoyment". To Mr. Donnelly's Economics jokes "can I not make a mistake, have I not given you enough handouts". To Mr. Kotecha's rick's barber shop and diaper business, and Ms. Nichols functions jokes on our assignments and tests "what's the Tan of theta, tangerine". Lastly, Mr. Jamieson's to the songs that you play in class "put another nickel in the nickelodeon".

To my brothers, I say thank you. To the small grade of roughly of 20 in grade 4, to the almost tripled class size today. Thank you for all the amazing times and memories that I will have for the rest of my life.

As we all depart on our ways and find our own path in life, let's not forget that this is our second home. Thank you RSGC!

Eight years ago I started at the college as a young asian child with glasses and a bowl cut. Now I leave the college with just the asianess. I'd like to thank all the teachers that helped me along the way, especially Ms. Nichols for providing me three years of weekly advisory meetings. I'd also like to take the time to thank my older brother Ryan Holland for providing a preexistent identification as I journeyed through high school. As well, a huge shoutout is in order for that time Mr. Hutton caught me eating a sandwich in the library but let me finish it. Northlea isn't Leaside. Etobicoke is not part of Toronto. Never forget the pursuit of bites. Rylan didn't drive me to HOCO. TJs > Fiction. Simon has next.

Looking back on my time at the Royal College it is hard to believe that the end of my near 10 years is close. When I arrived at RSGC in the third term of grade three, I was self conscious, chubby and only 6'3, but through the repetitive gym playlists, my econ labs, pasta Wednesdays, meatless Mondays (R.I.P.), Ruscitti advisor group, ill advised AJ Green fantasy trades, club Turnbull, fantasy basketball dominance, TJs, clubbing with Aaron Rodgers and Kevin Malone, I have become the person I am today. Over the last 10 years this place has become somewhat of a home for me and I will miss a lot about RSGC, in particular my fellow Class of 17' brothers and all the teachers who dealt with me through the years. Thanks to everyone that made my experience so great.

Below is a list of my favourite inspirational quotes.

"Life is like a box of chocolates... It forgets the importance of bilateral management" - Dom Toretto, License to Kill

"Bees are dying at an alarming rate" - Steven Spielberg, Large Ship, Small Problems

"I will have the spaghetti. With a side salad... If the salad is on top, I send it back." - Michael Scott

Nicholas Jones

Four years ago, my parents bought me a ticket from The Memory Making Business and I hopped on The Memory Train. Throughout my ride I've experienced amazing things that I'll never forget. The ride has changed me in so many great ways, but there are some things that will stick with me forever...

My Uber service will live after a successful two years of business. The whip marks on my back are definitely sticking with me after the grade 11 trip to BC (the one from Chow still burns). I'll remember to somehow engineer the party in the least bait way in front of my teachers. I'll always identify as at least me and my brother. If an artist is playing a concert in town, you'll still be sure to find me there. I'll still ask my teachers if the assignment is 'for marks' or not, purely by habit. Lastly, I'll still find a way to drain your wallet, only to blow your eardrums out with an obnoxiously loud speaker.

Thanks to all the boys for making these four years ones to remember, to my parents for paying my pricy train ticket, and of course, thanks to the teachers who helped me reach my high school goals.

A lot of grads seem to have silent memories... mine, not so much.

Ethan Kelly

I can say with full honesty that deciding to come to RSGC in grade seven was one of the best decisions I have ever made. Looking back on the past six years all I can think about is how lucky I am. Lucky to have had such knowledgeable and inspirational teachers. Lucky to be surrounded by an amazing group of guys. Lucky to be part of the Rankin advisor group and to experience the true greatness of Rankin bars. Most of all, I am incredibly lucky to have such great parents that allowed me to come to this school.

I want to apologize for my frequent Borat and Desiigner impersonations and unnecessary dabbing. I also want to apologize for the number of trees I have killed as a result of taking econ. I want to thank 'twerf for teaching me how to say 'habi' even though he probably regrets it. Finally, huge shout out to Thomas and Matthew for managing to get a flag football league cancelled.

Each year at the College has seemed to be better than the one before, and while I am sad to be leaving such a wonderful place, I am very excited to witness all the great things everyone will go on to accomplish. No matter what happens we will always share the common bond of being Georgians and without everyone in this graduating class my school experience would have been nowhere near the same.

What an amazing year it's been,

I want to thank my mom and dad for putting me through this awesome school. Also a shout out to Mr. Stevens for always having my back and being the best advisor out there.

It took 2 years to figure out which grade I was in, and even longer for most of you to figure out what I did during all those days away, but my two years at RSGC were the best years of my life. This place is one in a kind and I'm going to miss my short time that I spent here.

For all the guys I took the pitch/course/track with thanks, it was a rip and it made school that much more special for me. Have a blast at university guys, thanks for the good times.

Max Kingsley

"Unhappy teachers complained about us grads checking out after marks went in, little did they know I checked out in Grade Nine."

Robert Kurdyak

Denial is a strange thing. Knowing that I will be living without family, without old friends, and without RSGC does not scare me yet. I'm not saying I should be scared, but at some point I'll move on to acceptance.

I am still in this pleasant area of reflection, looking back at what influenced me to get to the present. I looked at how the dress code forced people to make their own statements, through their actions and statements. I looked at who I admire, whether it is my fellow students, teachers, or faculty. I looked at how safe RSGC has become for me, a place to talk, to converse, to argue, to confide, and to confess. It is also an institution of support for me, ranging from Reuben coming to all the basketball games, to an ever-so-slightly generous late policy, as 5% a day is pretty cushioned.

Finding friends, finding a home, and finding the ability to give purpose to my own name has been wonderful over the last four years, and I hope to bring a little bit of RSGC with me as I move on. Apprehension describes my feelings of leaving pretty well, and I'm thankful RSGC has been such a large part of my past.

Thomas Latimer

I've been at this establishment for 4 years now but, it took me about 2 hours to figure out that RSGC was a special place. There are so many things that make the Royal College so amazing. Of course the teachers and students make the school awesome, but it's the little things really characterize the environment of the school. It's the coffee runs during Thursday assembly and occasionally during math class (Julian and Owen). It's boasting about being the only person to ever break their nose during "non-contact" flag football. It's counting on Will King to not be at school so you don't have to present your project till next class, and of course it's ensuring that Rylan makes a profit. These little memories will remain with me for the rest of my life, and I'd like to thank everyone involved in these small, but life altering events. I'd like to thank all of my friends who have helped me out and supported me over these last four years. I'd also like to thank my advisor and English teacher extraordinaire, Dr. Evans. Of course a huge thanks is in order for my family and especially my parents who allowed me to attend such a wonderful school, but the most important thank you goes to the real M.V.P Mr. Clifford.

Hey there you freak, thanks for deciding to read my quote,

First thing first, I would like to thank the school for tolerating me being sleep deprived for four years and occasionally sleeping in class. I would like to thank my peers for tolerating me complaining about being in pain constantly because of allergy.

I would like to apologize to my peers and teachers for carrying a horrible smell into the school - this was planned by Taro. He decided to come to bed, smelling like skunk and transferred the smell to me. So I came to school smelling like skunk and had to put cocoanut lotion on my clothing.

I would like to apologize to Robert 'GRibs' Miller, whom I broke his lips by launching my phone at his face, Puneet Baggster, for writing a god awful grad quote in which made me barf and Brendan 'Bread' Leder for helping and tolerating my stupidity in computer science and math. On the bright side, I would like to thank my RSGC brothers for making my school life something to remember. Me being in RSGC has lightened up my dead pitch black soul.

In graduating I sit at a tipping point in my life which I still can't fully believe I've reached. My time here over the past four years has been a formative time during which I've forged some of my favourite memories. It feels like almost yesterday that I was at camp in grade nine, and yet despite how fast it went by, I'm very much a different person now than I was then. The Royal college will always be a place full of special, and quite often thoroughly absurd memories for me, and I can only hope that going forwards in life I can hang onto some of the amazing community present in this graduating class.

It's been quite a while. Nearly half my life to date has been spent coming to the school each day. I'd say the majority of my conscious life, but I've spent quite a bit of time sleeping at this school too. We've all changed a lot since we first got here, myself included as much as I hate to admit it. Not long past are the days where I would hesitate to even acknowledge people in the hall, or scowl when someone said hello. I feel that right now I can safely count each and every one of the people in this grade a friend. Life will go on, friendships will fade, but we all know that no matter how far we get from this school, we will still be waiting for Mr. Donnelly to lower the denominator, and that writing a cheque by hand is something we will never have to do.

9 years at RSGC and I am finally done. Couldn't have had a better experience at the Royal College with the boys. Thanks to all the teachers for a great time. Shoutout to big Russ and the Ruscitti advisor group for chicken fried rice Fridays. Huge thanks to Mr. Jamieson for all the great and memorable choir tours. Shoutout to Mr. Donnelly for the great last hockey rip taking the boys to the championship. Big shoutout to all the teachers that blessed me an extension. Shoutout to Rupert for always being a hype beast. Shoutout to all the boys for all the great memories and I hope there is many more to come. If I had to sum up my experience in one quote it would be, "anything spelled backwards is push pace".

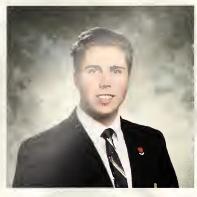

Matthew Pritchard

It's hard to believe that it has been 6 years since I first started coming to RSGC. I still remember the trip up to grade 7 camp like it was yesterday. Throwing a cup of water into Mr. Mazurek's face on my birthday and meeting many of my best friends today. Although it hasn't always been fun I can genuinely say that I have loved my time at this school. As we all head our separate ways next year friendships will fade and we will make new memories but I know that I will remember this my years here forever.

10 years. 10 years of growing and maturing. 10 years of learning and bonding with teachers and friends. 10 years of laughter and happiness. This place has done so much for me. I could not have imagined a better fit. It is an honour to be a part of such a strong community. Growing up with all these guys has made me who I am today. The people here are some of the best people out there and I am so grateful for you all. I will never forget my time here and will always keep close the values being at RSGC has taught me. Thank you everyone.

This my friends, I can honestly say we accomplished.

I came here a young calf, and I leave a grown bull.

Sebastian Reed

There were many one-liners that could fill this slot, but I couldn't decide on one... A simple "BUTWERF" would have been fitting. Stating that I indeed back Snipes would be nice, but generic. "the kickbacks cancelled bro" could work, but the reference won't last. Having a dig at Simon for the most gem maneuver (hitting BH after) could also work, but that's a little too gem. Declaring J Fish as head boy is always gold, but this probably isn't the place. Saying 'the first two letters' would be bait, but I back Snipes so it's good. I could probably just drop a 'HAPI' and claim I was glitching, but Milly is probably doing that. There are plenty more one-liners in my repertoire, but I think you get the message.

Memories are made with people and places we love. I can whole-heartedly say I am going to miss this place and the boys so very much. From Unterseebooten, to Steez and beez, Filipe, the Financial Securities shenanigans, Chow's "take a walk", and all the jokes in between, this is a place you want to be.

I can't thank my parents, the teachers and the boys enough for making these 4 years the most unforgettable yet. Still yet to be megged' by Robbie Bruce.

Julian Russell

When I joined RSGC, I was an only-child. Now, I have brothers. The last four years have been a learning and growing experience like no other time in my life. I am so grateful for all those who have played a part in it. To my teachers and fellow grads, thank you. I am excited for what our futures hold.

Felix Sennecke

I don't know what to say, this is way too surreal. This place has become my second home over my 4 years here. It feels like yesterday that I was walking through the halls, staring at the older boys. Wanting, wishing, striving, to be just like them. Well, here I am, and all I want to do is trade places with a niner, so I can relive it all over again.

I've learned many things in my years here at the college, but the most important things are, if you value your life, don't get in a car with Rylan; it's not a party if Will's shirt is on; Seb and Will have their own language that we all pretend to understand, but they actually do; if you want to get megged or find a quote about anything that has ever happened ever, just go find Robbie; Stewart is club champ; Scott is always sayin; and Everett is never not in a relationship.

To my graduating class, thank you so much for making my high school experience the best I could ever wish for. In the words of Jack Johnson "it's always better when we're together."

"I am smiling because you are my brothers. I am laughing because there is nothing you can do about it!" – Unknown.

It's been quite the year. There are just a couple of things that I would like to say. RSGC has been a wonderful 4 years that I will never forget. I can't say how grateful to attend such a wonderful place for 4 years. I would really like to thank my parents for being able send me to the school. I'd also like to thank Mr.Beatty for all the support over the years. You and the other teachers and other staff have had such a large impact in shaping the man I have become and i would like to say thank you. I would also like to thank the coaches that helped me over the years. Finally to the 73 other brothers in the grade I would like to say that you boys are like family to me. You guys have been there for up and down and i hope to you all of you boys later in life. "I am going to college to get my PDF or whatever".

Words can't describe all the amazing experiences I have had at RSGC. I just want to thank my parents for allowing me this amazing opportunity. All of the teachers and staff, and all the boys for making this such a great high school experience! You will be missed.

The last time I attended a school not named RSGC, Dany Heatley had just scored 50. It still has not sunk in that next year I will not be returning to St George's. In 10 years many things have changed, headmasters, tarmacs, even the library used to have books. That being said every day I seem to make memories at the Royal College and if I had to make a mixtape of my time here I would most likely include:

Obscene Choir Tour Rips, Winning CISAA Over Johnny Boland, Saving Private Rylan, Jeff's Playlist at Club Turnbull, Getting Clapped by Cubans in Baseball in Cuba, Ending Snipers Ball Hockey Career, Scoring Double Par Once at Golf Team, Too Much Spending at Starbucks, Cruising on Route 66, Refereeing the Infamous Thomas Latimer Intramural Game, Sleeping Outside During Grade 10 Dogsledding, Taking a Quick Nap at Butterworth's, Fighting Nick Jones, Munching Belly Busters, Missing 50 Days a Year to "ski", Have I mentioned I did a 50 Day, Reading Banter on CO17, and Always Having my Hand on My Heart for Oh Canada.

Finally, my taste of RSGC, Bradley Walker was our tour guide and when my parents met him the bar was instantly set. Reflecting on my experience, I may not be as intelligent, well mannered, or mature as they would have initially hoped, however, I tried my best. I am extremely grateful to both of my parents for sending me here. I love you both.

Sincerely,

The Best of The Grifter

RSGC Takes the Plunge

It has been said by many that when it comes to athletics, often small schools simply cannot compete with larger ones. However, many people are often wrong.

The nervousness in my stomach slowly builds as the thundering roars and cheers echo throughout my ears, radiating from the wall of boisterous fans that surround the 25-meter pool. This is the moment that we have been working towards all winter. The many rainy afterschool practices and cold tired morning workouts have all been in anticipation of this moment. The familiar piercing blow of the starting whistle sounds as our first swimmer takes the blocks.

As my cross-country coach Dave Fitzpatrick once said, "You've made it to the show, and now you have to perform." Well, the stage was set and the performers were ready to play.

On March 8th, 2017, six members from the Royal St. George's College swim team took to the blocks to represent their school at OFSAA (Ontario Federation of School Athletic Associations), Ontario's high school provincial championships.

It was a cool wind-chilled morning in the small rundown city of Windsor, Ontario. The boarded up windows, empty display cases, and the familiar FOR LEASE signs that had spread like wildfire through this desolate shell of a city threatened to put a damper on this special day. However, the nervous and excited energy that had been sucked from the surrounding city was now in abundance, emanating from Windsor's International Aquatic Center.

It all began just one year earlier when RSGC's Head Boy, Conor Commons, decided to organize a swim team. One of the core characteristics that defines a Georgian is his willingness to help to positively impact those around him. Conor certainly proved this in his efforts to organize and lead one of RSGC's most successful teams this year.

Conor, who started swimming competitively at age 10, had been trying to organize a team since he enrolled in Grade 9. Over the summer he reached out to Steve Turner, RSGC's newly appointed Director of Athletics to begin planning.

"Last February, I got in contact with the pool and then talked to Mr. Stevens about the new Athletic Director, who at the time I didn't know was Mr. Turner," said Conor.

RSGC does not have a pool on campus and lacks the necessary training facilities to house a swim team. Fortunately, the St. Alban's Boys and Girls Club, located just ten minutes from campus, is attached to a pool. This fifteen-meter hot tub was smaller than the competition size pool and lacked starting blocks. However, it would be perfect for the novice high school swim team.

"We talked about price, price range, and pool availability," said Conor. "I then forwarded that information to Mr. Turner who was a huge help. In the end, if he had not been there, I don't think it would have ended up happening."

Logistically, organizing a swim team without a pool on campus is a struggle. The pool is often booked solid resulting in early morning practices, a turnoff for most adolescent boys.

The team consisted of twelve members and trained twice per week on Tuesday and Thursday mornings for one hour. One of Conor's greatest challenges was his availability.

"I train six days per week, consisting of six to seven swims and three dry-land training sessions," said Conor.

Despite his training schedule, Conor was able to play an active role in coaching the team from the pool deck. Each practice he would lead the team through a series of "activation" exercises, aimed at preparing the muscles for the workout ahead. From the pool deck, he would then lead the boys through a workout developing both fitness and technique.

Conor was not alone, though; he recruited the help of Greg Seale, the school's new Media Arts teacher.

In the first week of school, Conor was a leader on the Grade 9 Outdoor Education trip to Camp Arowhon. At the end of trip, the staff and students competed in an echo challenge. One of the activities was a 100-meter freestyle swim race, which is where Connor spotted Mr. Seale.

"Conor came to me and said, "I heard you killed it at the staff thing. Do you want to be a coach?" And I said sure," said Seale.

Mr. Seale had previous experience with coaching at his former position at the Bishop Strachan School and was familiar with the sport, having competed himself. He was a former backstroke swimmer in high school, competing at OFSAA in Grade 10. It was a perfect match.

The team's first meet on November 30, 2016, was an unexpected success, with two first and second place finishes in both individual and relay events. It was clear that although the team was small, its talent was deep.

On February 24th, 2017, the team and I competed at CISAA, the school's regional championships.

It was the calm before the storm as all eight swimmers were poised, ready, and waiting for the gun. The gun sounded, sending all eight swimmers flying off the starting blocks into a ferocious furry of kicking and pulling. It was the final event of the day, the 200-meter relay. It was almost my turn. As I took my place on the starting blocks, all the muscles in my body relaxed in anticipation of the next twenty-nine seconds. My heart quickened in pace as I plunged into the roil and boil of churning pool water. Every muscle in my body felt like rubber as my heart struggled to feed them. Ten meters. Five meters. My index finger jammed as I crashed into the wall tired and out of breath, sending our final swimmer into the water. This final leg would be the one to win us gold and punch our ticket to the upcoming provincial championships.

As a team, we qualified six members to compete at OFSAA. Our relay team placed 10th overall in addition to several other top ten finishes in the individual events.

"I am super impressed with the team's performance," said Seale. "I don't even think you guys realize how well you did. If you noticed, we were with seven other schools on the bus to OFSAA, and only one of those schools made the finals and we had seven top ten finishes with only twelve guys on the team. That's pretty impressive."

With just 200 boys enrolled in high school at the College, fielding a team of twelve members was a challenge in itself. To then be able to send more than half of the team to OFSAA was an accomplishment that no one could have predicted. When it comes down to it, success is just the result of nothing more than a lot of really hard, focused work. Each member of the team worked as hard as he could each practice to help one another succeed.

What Royal St. George's College lacks in size it makes up for in hard work and dedication, which is what allowed this team to achieve the success that it did.

Hope

This is not the piece I originally intended to write. This was going to be a piece full of anger. It was going to be full of anger: anger at what has happened to our country, anger at what has happened to our world, anger at what has caused it, and anger for the six Canadians killed on Sunday. This was going to be a piece filled with hate, towards all those who spread hate.

The events of the past few days especially, but also the past years, have sapped my desire to write about anything but anger. Trying to write about hope and love seems naive and useless in a world so defined by the hate of others.

But eventually, the hate has to stop. What Quebec has shown us is that now is as good a time as any.

We Canadians have always felt protected from the rise of terrorism, populism, fear and all the other evils of the world. We have always been close to the evil, yet it rarely strikes us in the way that it strikes our allies. The past few days have shaken us from that sleep.

That is the true anger that I'm feeling. To quote Pierre Trudeau during the October Crisis, "Canadians have always assumed that it could not happen here and, as a result, we are doubly shocked that it has." The true anger that I'm feeling is for a Canada that I have now begun to doubt.

When we look abroad and see people targeted for their race or religion, we think, not here.

When we look abroad and see innocents struck by the spectre of terror, we think, not here.

When we look abroad and see hate, racism, and intolerance, we think, not here.

And, when we look to ourselves last Sunday night, we think, we were wrong.

I have begun to doubt, yet I still have hope. I believe that Canada can be what we want it to be again. I know that Canada is better than what happened on Sunday, and I know that Canadians know that Canada is better than what happened on Sunday.

Today's world is not a world that lends itself to optimism, nor a world that lends itself to hope. That is why it's so important. When hope is in retreat, that is when it's most important to protect it. Hope is not always easy, but it is always necessary.

Canada is one country, and we have been through worse. If we remain together, Canada will be the country that we think it will be. That is one thing that I do know. Canada will emerge from this more united, and we must preserve that unity. Those who look different from us are not our enemies, that is not the Canadian way.

A united Canada will triumph over all forms of evil.

RSGC Debating Highlights

The RSGC debate team had a great year this year. We went to several competitions across Toronto where we debated current issues in several different styles including Canadian Parliamentary, British Parliamentary and Cross Examination. We also organized an election debate for the 2016 US election. The highlights of the year were when Alex Forgay qualified for the nationals public speaking championships in Winnipeg and when RSGC successfully hosted the Winter Fulford Competition. Over 20 schools attended the Fulford tournament and the RSGC faculty, students and community all volunteered their time to make the day a success.

The International History Bee and Bowl teams had a great year. Our Senior team won the Toronto regionals before finishing third nationally. Ryan Hamilton came second in the Bee Nationals and Nicholas Geist came fourth in the Toronto Bee. In the Junior Division, Aaron Nash came second at the Toronto regionals and Callum Manson came fifth. In the Middle School division, Jacob Lloyd came sixth and Charlie Botterell came eighth in the Toronto Bee and they came fourth as a team. Jr School Cross Country Coaches Enfield and Stephenson-Smith

This year the team featured 19 dedicated distance runners who trained four days per week from September to end of October. Each week of the season runners had the opportunity to test their fitness level in a league competition versus runners of the same age. The focus of the RSGC Junior Cross Country program is to improve personal fitness by training for competition. These runners learn to value hard work by seeing tangible improvements throughout the season. The coaches of this year's team are incredibly proud of all of the athletes and of their efforts at the CISAA championship meet in late October.

Distance running is an individual sport yet we can make each other better by training together and supporting each other.

Congratulations to this year's RSGC Junior XC Team.

Sr School Cross Country - Coaches Fitzpatrick & Newton

The Cross Country running team has only two expectations: show up every day, bring a friend tomorrow.

The very nature of the sport is predicated on dedication and work ethic rather than raw talent. There is veritable guarantee that daily dedication will lead to improvement. It is also a highly measurable sport and it helps that our first and last races of the season are on the same course. This allows runners to directly measure their improvement and correlate it to their work ethic.

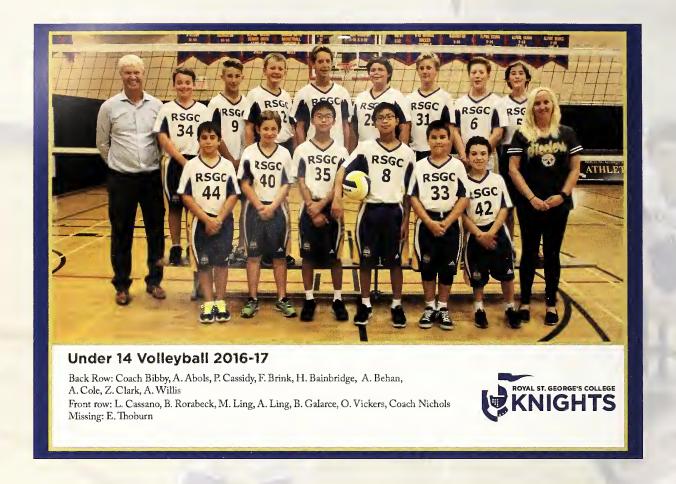

Though running is often conceived of as an individual sport, we believe strongly that running together makes us all better. Georgian runners challenge and support each other in every practice and race. There is always a teammate right in front of you and another right behind you. This mutual support is what makes us a unit. The Senior team this year exemplifies this as they have concluded four years of challenging and supporting each other.

It is particularly noteworthy this year that so many of our runners qualified for the OFSAA Championships. David Barkway, Will Van Nostrand, Angus McLeish, Hudson McDaniel, Jonathon Fisher, Graeme Stewart, Jeremy Burleton and Andrew Leishman all qualified to compete at the highest level of intercollegiate sport in Canada.

Although making it to the final 4, the U16 volleyball team met a really challenging team in SAC and were unable to make it to the finals.

We would like to congratulate all the boys on a great season and we commend them all for being great team players whether they were on the court or cheering from the sides.

The senior volleyball team plays in the first division against such powerhouses as St. Mike's, St. Andrew's and UCC just to name a few. The core of the team is a group that have been together throughout all four years of high school. Their play could only be described as scrappy, often finding themselves in a deep hole, only to rally and force a number of 5th games or even coming from behind to win. The team finished the season earning a playoff spot. An accomplishment worthy of high praise in such a competitive division.

We had an extremely exciting start and finish to our season. We won our first two games handily, giving the boys confidence and motivation to keep the winning streak alive. Our end of season tournament had us play at Upper Canada College on a balmy morning at the end of October. The boys rallied hard and played their hearts out in their final game of the season against Crescent School beating them 4-0 after losing to them in regular season play. This year the Sr. Hockey team enjoyed a very successful season. We finished the season with an 8-1 record beating teams such as Trinity College, Greenwood, Ridley, St. Andrew and of course the RSGC Jr. hockey team. We finished first in the division which meant we had the privilege of hosting Greenwood, Country Day School and St. Andrews in the CISAA Non-contact final tournament. They boys took a Friday off school to play in 2 games of hockey. CDS was the only team that we had lost to in the regular season so we were all very motivated to get vengeance.. As we walked onto the ice we were greeted by a group of RSGC students who came out to support our team. The arena was buzzing. We fought hard for the first 2 periods and going into the 3rd we had a 4-2 lead. CDS started the 3rd period strong and came back from a 2-goal deficit to tie the game at 4-all. With about 8 minutes left it the game it was tied. We all went to work and gave it all we had for the final 8 minutes. Thanks to our very talented first line, PC, Jack and Brendan, we scored 4 goals to win the game 8 - 5. On behalf of the team, I'd would like to thank the boys who managed to sneak out of school to support us on a Friday, the parents who took time out of their day to come and support us at all of our games and of course Mr. Donnelly and Mr. C for being the best and most entertaining coaching staff I have ever had. - Captain Rory Wilmer

With a game heavy first term, the U16s entered the winter break in the middle of the playoff picture at .500. Coming back from the break, the boys trained hard and ended the regular season winning 4 of 6, just making it into the playoffs as the 6th seed. Our boys worked hard in preparation, and learned many new plays specifically for this game.

Leading all game, we squeaked into the semi-finals, winning by 4. On an early Saturday morning at Toronto French School, we faced UCC - who had also beaten us previously. The senior basketball team enjoyed a 23 game season this year, starting off with the CAIS National Tournament in Montreal and ending with a game on the Raptors main court at the ACC! The CISAA D1B Semi-Final vs. GCS was a tremendous effort and the very best of the season. It all came down to just one possession where if somewhere during that 32 minutes of semi-final playoff intensity we had been able to come up with just one more play, greater effort or more positive choice, then we would have upset the number one team in the league for a place in the championship game. It was a fantastic game - everything a playoff game should be - and we can all be proud of the effort our boys left on the floor. A big thank you to all of our players for their commitment and very best efforts throughout the season. Wishing the graduating seniors all the very best and looking forward to next season with the grade 11s bringing their experience forward and the young bucks coming up from U16s with an eye on the CAIS National Tourney in Halifax, Selwyn House Tourney in Montreal, Toronto's Hoop Dome Tourney and hopefully another shot at the CISAA D1B Championship...let's get to work - GO KNIGHTS!

The final basketball award is the Ian Lomax Memorial Trophy for Determination, perseverance and sportsmanship in the support and development of Basketball at RSGC – Congratulations to Matthew Stewart.

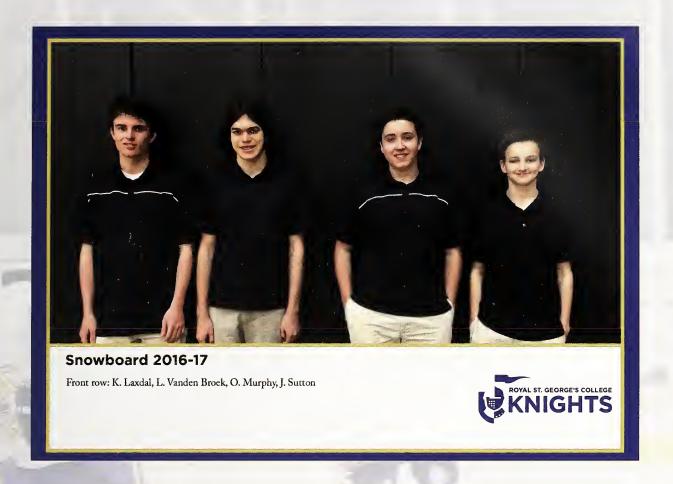

Sr Swim team - Coaches Seale, Fitzpatrick, Uhre and Conor Commons

The inaugural season of the RSGC swim team (or at least the first one in some time) was a great success. There were around a dozen swimmers, at all skill levels, regularly participating. At the CAIS championships we won 4 gold medals (4x100 SR relay, 100 open free, 100 SR free, and 100 JR free), several silver medals and a couple of 3rd place finishes. All in all, many boys swam personal bests when it truly counted. At the end of the day, 6 athletes qualified for OFFSA and travelled to Windsor in March to compete. In Windsor, the small but mighty RSGC swim team produced 7 top ten finishes in the province. They represented their school extremely well and we are tremendously pleased with their accomplishments.

Snowboarding - Coach Bader-Shaw

Snowboarders had another great season this year with a strong grade 9 turnout. The boys braved our cold conditions, 6 am departures, and long bus rides to the Collingwood area to compete with 120 athletes from CISAA in giant slolam, slope style park and boardercross.

This season's highlights include:

Our team placed 3rd at the CISAA finals and 6th overall for the season in Snowboarding Giant Slolam.

Ben Christmann placed 1st in his L2 division and OVERALL at CISAA finals championship and was unfortunate to miss OFSAA this year due to injuries.

Jamie Barkway placed 8th in Boardercross and made it on the CISAA SBX team.

Jamie Barway's CISAA team placed 5th at the SBX (Snowboarding Boardercross) OFSAA Snowboarding Festival finals at Beaver Valley.

We thank all of the athletes who participated this season and will miss our fun loving graduating leaders: Jamie Barkway, Max Kinsgley, Kai Laxdal and Luke Vanden Broek.

A big thank you to Ms. Cheung, Mr. Cameron Farrell form Snowboard Canada, Mr. Turner and Ms. Bader-Shaw for coaching this year.

U12 Softball Coach Brian Robinson

The U-12 Softball season experienced both highs and lows this season with a mix of spectacular plays and a few learning experiences along the way. Our Knights made it to the final tournament at UCC where we played solid softball, caming up just short in the end. The team should be proud of itself having played together as Georgians. Win or lose, our season was a great one and as your Coach, I look forward to having so many of you return next year for another great season. Go Knights!!

U14 Softball Coaches Stephen Dame and Stefanie Turner

The U-14 softball team enjoyed their best season in recent memory, losing only one game all season and finishing 2nd place in division I. New grade 7's added much needed speed and clutch hitting while the returning grade 8's provided the leadership and consistency needed to win. On and off the field, the U-14 softball team represented Royal St. George's College with pride and look forward to bigger and better things in 2018.

Sr Baseball - Coaches Newton & Rankin

This year's team had one of the best results in many seasons with a trip to the final four and a tough loss to St. Mike's. Many young players joined veterans for great chemistry and support on the field. A very deep pitching staff holds promise for the season to come and remember it is never too early to hit the batting cage. We wish the graduating players well who have contributed so much to the success of this team and baseball culture at RSGC.

Varsity Tennis - Coach Stevens

Varsity tennis had a strong season with many accomplishments to be proud of. The most impressive feat was that Thomas Partridge went undefeated throughout the regular season. Also of note was our first doubles team of Nick Tepsich and Michael Tuer along with our second doubles team of Thomas Latimer and Brendan Lai helped sucure our second place standing in our division. It is a short season with some very competitive teams and RSGC finished with pride and grace.

U16 Rugby - Coaches Farrar & Lambersky

Here's a recipe that is bound to whet your appetite: 1. Add 17 tough, talented young men. 2. Mix in the best looking U-16 rugby sevens coaching staff in all of the Annex. 3. Throw in a heaping helping of that timeless, game winning, and often neglected quality known as teamwork, and you're ready to serve up a highly successful U-16 rugby sevens season. The 2017 season can be characterized by perfect execution of plays, solid tackling, big runs, and the removal of copious amounts of skin on artificial turf. It was a near-perfect season for the U-16s with them earning a silver medal in the CISAA championship tournament. Well done, gentlemen, on a successful and memorable season!

Sr Rugby - Coaches Sarellas and Donnelly

We participated in three tournaments, and finished the season at .500. While it was a trying year, beset by injuries and timetabling conflicts, at full strength, the team was able to rise to the challenge and played some quick paced and exciting rugby - going 2-1 in our opening tournament.

Golf Team - Coach Castator

The golf team started the season off in cold, wet, muddy conditions in late April. From the first tournament in Niagara Falls, to the championships in Aurora, the boys displayed focus, determination and ability to perform under pressure. The junior boys despite not having a full team were great representatives of the Georgian Sport and gained valuable experience that will prove useful in future years. The senior team showed consistency throughout the year and at the championships, ended up finishing with a successful 3rd place as a team and were led by Jack Day who followed up his individual gold medal last year as a junior, by winning the gold in his first year as a Senior.

Under 16 and Varsity Ultimate Coaches Girvan, Jessani and Turner

RSGC was very excited to introduce a new spring sport this year. Ultimate Frisbee began as an exhibition team last year to gauge interest and it was clear from the start that this was a team that there was high demand for. RSGC partnered with Branksome Hall and due to high numbers, the school was able to field a U16 and Varsity team. Both teams had a fun inaugural season playing in all weather conditions. The enthusiasm and positive attitude the boys brought to every practice and game was incredible and their interactions with the Branksome girls always displayed true Georgian values. When determining the award winners for this season, the coaches found it extremely difficult, as there were so many deserving athletes. The coaches would like to congratulate all members of the both teams for a fantastic first season and we look forward to seeing how this team grows in the future.

Jr Track & Field
Coaches Drew Blanchette and Kelley Fitzpatrick

Track & Field had the largest team they have ever had and Mr. Blanchette and Ms. Fitz are very excited about the bright future of this team.

Nearly 50 boys ran, jumped and threw implements for the past several weeks, trying new things, creating new personal bests, breaking records and working toward being better than they were yesterday. Highlights included pod meets, 12 minute runs, chase sprints, crazy 8's workout, throwing javelins over the school, games of octopus on the turf and getting to know other boys better. Keep working hard boys, this year was an incredible testament to what we can do together as a team, we can't wait for next year!

SR Track & Field - Coach Fitzpatrick, Bader-Shaw and Bibby

All members of the 2017 Track and Field team were notable in the dedication and work ethic. Irregardless of the weather conditions, they trained and competed. In their workout and competitions, they gave it their all. And in track and field, there is nowhere to hide and no excuses. Every moment of competition can be scrutinized and results are very public. Despite this, each athlete is accountable only to himself. Only he know the percentage of effort he put into the performance.

Three notable performances this year are the Georgians who qualified for the Metro Regional Championships by being top four in CISSA Championships.

"Big" Max McCutcheon ran a hard charging 100m hurdle race and gutted it out in the 300m hurdles in the rain and wind. This young grade nine keeps coming with surprising speed!

Angus "Angry" McLeish ran a personal best time in the heats of his 100m hurdle race to make the afternoon final. Against the best hurdlers in the GTA, he again set a new personal best to claim 6th place in 14:00s.

Seb "The Man" Danson was a strong contender in the 800m and drew a tough heat in the 400m prelims but found a new gear to finish second and earn a spot in the final eight ranked fourth. A quick start, a blazing back straightaway, and a gutsy finish earned Seb a new personal best time and the bragging rights to second fasted man in the GTA around the track. This also punches his ticket for an OFSAA berth. I believe Seb is the only athlete here whose school competitive season is still underway. Good luck on Thursday in Belleville!

Jr Badminton

Having won the CISAA championship last year, this year the Junior Badminton team lost 5 players to the senior team, or attrition. As a result, this has been in a rebuilding year for us. We managed 3 wins and 2 losses in the season, and 6th place in the final CISAA tournament. The highlight of the season, undoubtedly, was winning the GOLD medal for first place at 2nd Doubles!

MVP: James Newell MIP: Matts Le Feuvre

Georgian Sport: Wang Wang

RSGC Sr. badminton has a fabulous tradition of winning in CISAA/ OFSAA competition. This season was no different as the boys team finished 3rd in their final tournament. Things look solid for next year, as 6 out of the 8 players will be returning for another shot at the title.

Special mention of Luke Tao (grade 10) for his first experience at OFSAA. He qualified in mixed doubles finishing number one overall. At OFSAA, Luke and his partner from Branksome Hall finished with an impressive 2 wins and 4 losses in closely played matches.

Finally, Mr Doerksen, Mr Algarvio and Mr Evans would like to acknowledge Patrick Bernhard and Simon Deshpande for their leadership and skillful play over the past 6 years. These boys will have successfully graduated through our under 14, under 16 and senior teams. The pleasure was ours!
